

DESCENDANTS

True Israelite Identity of Bantu Negroes in Africa is revealed. Many tribes in West/Central Africa from whom the Bahamian and Haitian people descend from are listed below.

Temne, Mande, Krio, Wolof, Ashanti, Fante, Eve, Ga, Yoruba, Fon, Igbo, Kikongo, Baluba, Bamileke, Bassa, Tikar, Angolares

These Bantu Tribes were called "Juifs" by the French, "Heeboes (Hebrews)" by the British, "The People of the Books" or "So Yudah" or "Ibn Yacub (Son of Jacob)" by the Arabs. These Tribes all tell of a Migration story of how they came left Israel and entered into Africa by way of Egypt. They have Hebrew infused with their "Mother tongue"....not the language of their colonial masters (such as English, French, Portuguese and they all have Traditions/Customs which are identical to the Law of Moses...aka the Torah which was given to the 12 Tribes of Israel by Yah (God) after Moses's encounter with Yah on Mount Sinai. Because of their ancestors disobedience in following the Laws, statues and commandments of God listed in the Book of Deuteronomy and Leviticus....God promised that their children...and children's children would endure what is known as the "Curses of Israel"....one of which included being sold into slavery from one place (Africa) to another (the Bahamas, Haiti etc).

One thing in particular that is unique about these Israelites that left Israel and went into Africa....later having to go through slavery by European Colonial Masters....is the fact that all of the male descendants of these Israelites who scattered into Africa carried the same Paternal Y-DNA "E1b1a". This Genetic Paternal (Father/Patrilineal) marker can be seem widespread in 70% of the people in Sub-Saharan Africa who were subjugated to Slavery.... in ALL Afro-Caribbeans, African-Americans, and Afro-Latinos in Central America and South America.

SCRIPTURES

Moses told Israel if they didn't cleave unto the voice of the Most High, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes, that curses shall come upon them, and overtake them. So this was the warning that was given unto Israel by the Most High through Moses. In Deuteronomy Chapter 28 verse 15 - 68 we find out that these curses shall also come upon the seed (children) of Ancient Israel -And they shall be upon thee for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever. So in order to identify who the children of Israel seed are today, we must examine who fulfil the curses that are written of in Leviticus 26 and Deuteronomy 28, and in other prophecy.

When you read about Israel in your bible (from Genesis to Revelation) you're reading about most of the modern day black men, women and children you see in America, Bahamas, Haiti and others across the globe. This shows us that these curses written in the Scriptures would identify who the children of Israel are because there would be no other way to identify them. Those who claim to be Jews (Ashkenazim) fail, in everyway, to fit the criteria but who does? The so-called Negro, who is a descendant of the slave trade, fit the criteria more than any other people. YAH also told the Hebrews that if they broke his laws and commandments there would be consequences, and these consequences would come in the form of curses or punishments. These curses would be heaped upon Israel because they did not obey Yah's commandments and laws. They failed to keep their end of the deal, so to speak. In order for us to get a feel or understanding of who the Israelites are in the latter days, we must look for:

A people (of the same race and nationality) who are on the bottom socially, politically, economically and are the most despised, rejected and down trodden of society. This is a partial description of the Children of Israel in the latter days. When you find this group of people, you have found the true descendants of the ancient Hebrews according to scripture.

The people who are down on every front of society and fully fit the description of Israel, are the so-called "Black people" Bahamians/Haitians

BAHAMIANS

Lexical and syntactic studies of Bahamian Creole English (Holm, 1982; Shilling, 1977) led Holm (1983) to conclude that on southern Bahamian islands such as Exuma, it was mainland African American Vernacular English (AAVE) spoken by the slaves brought in by Loyalists after the Revolutionary War that predominated over the variety that had developed largely on the northern Bahamian islands. African American Vernacular English was a Proto-(ancient) Creole language that was used by the slaves brought from West Africa [Sierra Leone (Krio), Nigeria (Yoruba)] and Central Africa [(Congo, Angola)]. African American Vernacular English had it's on sound, vocabular and grammar. It is not English and it didn't evolve into Creole until slaves spent more years around English Speaking people (Europeans). Slaves brought from West and Central Africa to the Americas the had to develop their own regional "pidgin" languages in order to communicate with the Slavemasters and other African Israelite slaves using "English" as a base. This formed different creoles. After time these different "creoles" underwent decreolization as they became more closely resembling General English to "modern Creole" today. However, when slavery started....African-American Vernacular English was a mix of West/Central African Bantus Languages and English. The Grammatical rule of "early creole" languages from slavery followed "rules" seen in West/Central Africa.

Much of the heritage of the Bahamian people come from regions in African that the British controlled. Such as Sierra Leone, Cameroon, Ghana, Nigeria (Yorubaland/Igboland) and also places where French/Portuguese controlled (Cameroon, Congo/Angola).

Many slaves from the Grain coast/Windward coast were sent to North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and North Florida (Jacksonville)....such as the Gullah - Geechee people. The Gullah language is almost identical to Bahamian Creole....and these languages stem partly from the languages spoken in Sierra Leone...where the Temne and Mande people dominate.

Here are some of their Hebrew Traditions:

Circumcision on the 8th Day, Naming of child on 8th Day, Levirate Marriage, Casting of Lots, Draining of blood of animals before consumption, Great Oath, Knocking “bride” Ceremony, Dowry gifting during marriage, Harvest festivals/Celebrations/Feasts 3 times a year, A day of rest every 7 days counted by the start of the New Moon, Pouring of Libations, Presence of Diviners, Medicine men, Priests, Shamans, spiritualists whose foundation/root goes back to the Ancient Israelite High Priesthood....today these people and their practices have been corrupted overtime through mixing of culture/Traditions from other non-Bantu Tribes in Africa.....carried on via slavery throughout the Caribbean known as Haitian Voodoo (Vodun), Bahamian Obeah, Brazilian Santeria, Trinidad Orisha/Shango, Jamaican Obeah.

YOUR HAITIAN BROTHERS

In Haitian Creole....the language spoken by most of the people in Haiti...apart from French is a “mix language” of Spanish, French, English, Taino Indian and West African dialects from the Eve Tribe in Ghana/Togoland, Benin, Nigeria, the Wolof Tribe in Sengal-Gambia and Fon Tribe in Benin....home of the Kingdom of Juda(h), the Old Dahomey Kingdom where the Black Juifs (French for Jew) were sold at the Portuguese/French Slave port Ouidah, Fida Whydah, Ajuda.

Haitian slaves consisted of people from the Gold Coast... in particular the Eve People (Erverh-Hebrew Ibri) pronounced “ibree”. The Eve people’s history tells of their Exodus from Egypt crossing the Red Sea to the Land of Canaan. Later, after many centuries they fled back to Africa. The Eve people are scattered amongst the Volta region of Eastern Ghana, Togoland, Benin and Yorubaland. They speak the Kwa Languages (Eastern/Western Kwa) which is spoken by many Ghananians, Togolese, and Nigerians. Also, the most rebellious uncontrollable slaves on other Slave Plantations of Igbo descent were also sent to Haiti as a form of punishment. Slaves from the Congo, Cameroon and Angola were also sent to Haiti...whom many were descendants of the Black Jews who were exiled by the Spanish and Portuguese in the 1500’s A.D. They too are your Hebrew Brothers!

DNA

The Bahamians and Haitians....like other Afro-Caribbeans....all share the same Y-DNA “E1b1a” that is seen throughout West Africa and because of slavery they also share the same Y-DNA “E1b1a” as African-Americans and Afro-Latinos in Latin America. This means that we despite the name of Island or country we live in (i.e. Jamaica, Haiti, Bahamas, Cuba, Antigua, Barbados, America, Guyana, Suriname, Belize, Brazil, Guatemala, Columbia) we are all ONE FAMILY....the descendants of the Children of Israel.
